EVENT DESCRIPTION

This program is designed to meet the educational needs of the health care practitioner involved in the nutritional care of the newborn and who specialize in the care of the preterm infant in hospital and following discharge. The program is relevant to Registered Dietitians, Registered Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Neonatal Therapists (OT, SLP, PT), Neonatologists, Paediatricians and Family Physicians involved in neonatal and post-discharge follow up.

Our expert panel will review the most up to date evidence on relevant topics related to human milk feeding and breastfeeding support. Hot topics such as probiotics and human milk feeding and their effects on the infant microbiome and trans-generational health effects of nutrition are also highlighted.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Achieve a greater understanding of the importance of early nutrition and human milk feeding on long term health outcomes, including transgenerational health effects.
2. Appreciate the importance of probiotics and their impact on the infant microbiome.
3. Identify key benefits of providing pasteurized human donor milk to the hospitalized preterm infant.
4. Identify criteria for successful oral feeding based on infant-driven feeding cues in the NICU infant.
5. Discuss key nutritional aspects of providing human milk to the preterm infant following discharge.
6. Gain an understanding of innovative support and educational strategies for the breastfeeding mother.

CONFERENCE FEES

All Professionals: $120
Includes course materials, lunch, refreshments and applicable taxes.
